Written by Genevieve Austin
Friday, 02 January 2009 12:19

Have you been to the DragonFly Theater? It is an incredible business in the High Country! Perhaps the most versatile and lively space in Boone, the DragonFly creates countless reasons to find yourself and your friends inside this welcoming place. Discover a new local hang out where the one certainty is fun. Movies, dining, sports, live music, dances, parties or interesting programs – are alive and well inside this local treasure.

Owner, Sheri Baker has lived and traveled throughout the world and was inspired by dine-in movie theaters and flexible spaces in cities in the Northwest. She welcomes the public to rent the DragonFly Theater & Pub for private events and she opens the doors to culture, sports, music and pure pleasure. Conveniently located at 215 Boone Heights Drive in Boone, it's an easy escape from the winter weather. With delicious food and beverages (including an assortment of sodas and beer) available, dinner and a movie can be combined and remain affordable.

If you hear DragonFly Theater & Pub mentioned in conversation it might be hard to imagine that so many diverse events occur under one roof. Many people watched and celebrated the historical election results on the large screen. Sports coverage couldn't be more exciting on the huge screen. Sip a beer and enjoy a sandwich while you see a great live band. It may be that you've been there over and over. You can visit the DragonFly Theater for a variety of reasons and have a completely unique experience each time. The common thread will be having fun. Culture arrived in Boone and thrives within this one venue. Enjoy live music, an amazing movie, sports coverage on a giant screen, or attend - or host a party – even a dance in this amazingly versatile space. Resolve yourself to having fun in the New Year by treating yourself to the DragonFly Theater & Pub. For more information visit or call: www.dragonflytheater.com , 828-262-3222, 215 Boone Heights Drive in Boone, North Carolina.