Appalachian State women's tennis picked up their seventh victory of the season in a 7-0 victory against non-conference opponent Presbyterian College at Templeton Tennis Courts on Sunday afternoon. The victory marks the Mountaineers (7-

2) fourth sweep of the season, and their third shut out, while the Blue Hose drop to 3-2. Appalachian slid through doubles play, winning all three sets. Ellie Linsell and Mackenzie LaSure breezed past Greer Ransom and Linsay Krause in No. 1 flight (8-1), as did Clare Cox and Jennifer Ansari, who handed Patricia Alves and Courtney Gardiner a loss at No. 2 (8-4). The Mountaineers faced a challenge in No. 3 flight as Presbyterian's Caroline deLoach and Haley Elliott nearly took a win, but came up short to Brianna Armellino and Gabriela Celi (8-6). In singles play, two Mountaineers won by 6-4, 6-2 margins as Linsell and Ansari moved past Ransom and deLoach in first and third flights, respectively. Cox found victory in her second-flight match against Alves (6-1, 6-1), while freshman Brianna Armellino held off Krause (6-4, 6-0).
Jessica Thaggard and Celi also picked up victories in fifth and sixth flights. Looking ahead, the Mountaineers will host Chattanooga on March 1 at 2 p.m.
