

Governor says cut water consumption

Written by

Thursday, 23 August 2007 20:00

The drought in North Carolina continues, despite rain showers.

Yesterday, Governor Mike Easley asked Carolinians to cut water consumption by 20 percent. Drought has spread to all 100 counties of North Carolina, and forecasters do not expect significant rain next week.