Ashe County's Roy Carter announced his candidacy for Congress early this week.

North Wilkes High School's head football Coach, Carter believes his history in education gives him valuable insight.

"We need some real solutions for real people and some true and honest representation from this area. I have some major concerns about young people and I feel our present representative is out of touch with the people of this district," he said.

Carter has been teaching for over 40 years, and looks forward to showing the 5th district what he has to offer as a Congressman.
