

Woman Hurt as Car Flips; Infant Unhurt

Written by Steve Frank
Wednesday, 10 July 2013 13:14

An Ashe County woman was hurt as her car overturned on Old NC 16 south in the Crumpler area. Notably, her infant was unhurt in the 9:50am wreck, thanks to use of a child seat in the car. Trooper Olive identified the woman as 24-year old Audrey Miller of Grassy Creek, driver of a 2003 Saturn Ion that she went off of the road to her right, over-corrected, then pulled too strongly back to the right. The car ran off of the road and flipped over, crashing into a trailer in the 11,000 block of Old 16 causing some damage to the trailer and totaling her car. New River Fire Departments responded along with medics, and she was taken to Ashe Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries, her child unhurt.

Normal 0 false false false EN-US X-NONE X-NONE MicrosoftInternetExplorer4

An Ashe County woman was hurt as her car overturned on Old NC 16 south in the Crumpler area. Notably, her infant was unhurt in the 9:50am wreck, thanks to use of a child seat in the car. Trooper Olive identified the woman as 24-year old Audrey Miller of Grassy Creek, driver of a 2003 Saturn Ion that she went off of the road to her right, over-corrected, then pulled too strongly back to the right.

The car ran off of the road and flipped over, crashing into a trailer in the 11,000 block of Old 16 causing some damage to the trailer and totaling her car.

New River Fire Departments responded along with medics, and she was taken to Ashe Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries, her child unhurt.