In a very short press release this afternoon, Boone Police said that their evidence in the criminal case of the three deaths at the Best Western Hotel in Boone this past spring is being presented to the District Attorney's office today. The release said no further release is forthcoming from police, so it might be assumed the next information may come from the DA's office or possibly grand jury indictments. A Washington state couple and an 11-year old boy from South Carolina died in room 225 in two separate incidents involving the leak of carbon monoxide gas from a pool heater into the room above. Speculation of criminal charges may now be coming to fruition.
