

Dog-napper still at large, police say

Written by Lauren Ohnesorge
Tuesday, 22 May 2007 06:36

Police are still on alert for a pitt-bull, stolen from Watauga County Animal Control between May 15 and 16.

According to Watauga County Sheriff's Office's Randal Townsend, there are no suspects.

The nine-month-old dog's name is Dart and he has a microchip implanted with Humane Society information. Dart is neutered and brown with a white band around his neck. He weighs approximately 60 pounds.

{mosimage}

Anyone who sees a dog matching Dart's description is encouraged to call Crimestoppers at 828-262-4555.