

Students Continue To Support Renewable Energy Initiative

Written by Christie James
Thursday, 05 April 2007 04:14

ASU students voted in favor of continuing to support the campus renewable energy initiative. Recent student elections included a referendum on continuing a $5.00 student fee to support the school's renewable energy projects.

The students overwhelmingly passed the referendum, clearing the way to continue and grow more sustainable energy projects like the biofuels project implemented this year.