Early Saturday morning, a white male and white female entered the electronics department of Walmart, and while the woman stood watch, the male removed numerous Apple I pads and I pods from the electronics cabinet, someone from the scene saying they cleaned out the cabinet of the Apple products. The man placed the items into a shopping cart and the two suspects just walked out of the store. Walmart surveillance video then shows the two suspects getting into a white four-door sedan, with a sun roof, and exiting the parking lot.
