

Issues will cross agendas in meetings of the Watauga County Commission and Boone Town Council this week, including watershed issues on the Commission agenda that pertain to the South Fork of the New River on the Ashe Line, and Boone Housing standards that the Watauga Commission chairman would like to personally oppose for the county on the Boone Town Council agenda—that with a resolution of opposition on the Tuesday agenda of the County Commission. And the Boone Town Council's Thursday agenda includes an executive session item on negotiation for property along the New River for the water intake, a project currently stalled by Federal action after opposition by the Ashe County Manager. Should make for an interesting week of meetings.
