Jury selection continues today, in what will be the second week of first-degree murder suspect Jerry Anderson's trial.

The jury selection process may take the remainder of this week, according to defense attorneys. Anderson is accused of murdering his wife, Emily Anderson. Jurors have been quizzed on their opinions of the death penalty, since it is a capital case. The trial is going on in Gaston County due to the media coverage. The crime allegedly happened at a dairy farm in Caldwell County.
