

Samaritan's Purse Leader's Son Injured In Iraq

Written by Christie James

Tuesday, 13 March 2007 02:58

In a presentation Saturday, Samaritan's Purse leader Franklin Graham revealed that his youngest son, Edward, has been injured while fighting in Iraq. According to a Samaritan's Purse spokesperson,

In a presentation Saturday, Samaritan's Purse leader Franklin Graham revealed that his youngest son, Edward, has been injured while fighting in Iraq. According to a Samaritan's Purse spokesperson, 27-year-old Army Ranger Capt. Edward Graham got shrapnel in his arms, legs and back. Those injuries are not reported to be life threatening and Graham is expected to make a full recovery. Edward Graham, a graduate of West Point, is the Rev. Billy Graham's grandson.