Yesterday, Appalachian State University named its interim dean of the College of Fine and Applied Arts: Dr. Glenda Treadaway.

Treadaway looks forward to the coming weeks.

It will be a challenge, she says, but one she is excited to face.

Treadaway has been the chair of the communications department since 2005. In her absence, Dr. Janice Pope, professor and assistant chair in the Department of Communication, will serve as interim chair.

The College of Fine and Applied Arts' Advisory Boards Appreciation Event is Saturday, July 28, and will provide an excellent opportunity for advisory board members to meet Treadaway.
