Perfect weather greeted beer fans at the second High Country Beerfest on the grounds of the Broyhill Inn and Conference Center Saturday afternoon and evening.

The event allowed the over 900+ beer fans the opportunity to taste craft beers from around the region and around the world, while helping to fund the creation of what is hoped to be a new brewing curriculum at ASU. Organizers were thrilled at the turn-out for the event and the learning side of brewing that was featured in the festival.
