The Hospitality House Board of Directors invites the communities of its seven mountain county region to join them at 11:30 a.m. Friday, September 28 for their 7th annual luncheon. This year's theme, Fifty-Two Weeks of Hope will celebrate the restored hope, realized dreams and bright futures of people being served year-round by the Hospitality House. Being held at one of the most stunningly picturesque locations in the High Country, Blue Ridge Mountain Club (formerly Laurelmor Resort, Ginn Property,) the free luncheon will feature guest speakers sharing testimonials and inspirational stories of triumph over crisis and their transition out of homelessness. Attendees will learn about the unparalleled success of Hospitality House, the myriad of new programs and services being offered, as well as, the exciting ways that they can become involved in the mission of helping people rebuild their lives. The luncheon, catered by Buddy Fore and Grouse Moor Catering is free of charge and invitations are open to anyone wishing to attend.
