

Watauga High HOSA Students Win District

Written by Steve Frank

Thursday, 29 November 2012 11:58

Watauga High School students Maggie Cook and Austin Wilcox, first place winners of a HOSA (Health Occupations Students of America) regional competition in CPR and First Aid. The competition included 200 students and 100 teams from NW NC. The students are shown with Regina Alford, WHS health occupations teacher. The regional competition consists of a timed 100 question test which each student takes individually. The scores of each 2 person team are then summed to arrive at the team score. Cook and Wilcox will go on to state level HOSA competition to be held in the spring in Greensboro.