

The House tentatively agreed to replace the 'winner-take-all' method of electoral vote distribution with a more proportional method yesterday.

Democrats hope the bill will provide incentives for Democratic candidates to campaign in the state.

Republicans call it a cheap trick by Democrats to get electoral votes. A final House vote could happen today.