Changes are coming to downtown Boone- and they start tonight.

The first of two sculptures by Kevin Eincher goes up tonight. Why?

It's about beautifying downtown.

According to Art Walk manager Richard Jacobs, that's only part of why you should come to downtown Boone tonight. The big reason is to meet local artists at this month's Downtown Art Crawl.

Jacobs promises a "booming" night.

Along with music at the Jones House and a show opening at the Turchin Center, it's Art Walk's two-year anniversary. According to Jacobs, it's an event not to be missed in downtown Boone.
