

Gas Levels Off--For Now

Written by Steve Frank
Thursday, 17 March 2011 05:48

What's been out of the news for the last week? Gas prices. Our BP Barometer shows only a penny increase locally since last Wednesday, when prices jumped another nickel a gallon. Unrest continues across the oil producing North African region, specifically Libya, but with that civil war not leading to any gas supply problems, the spikes have leveled off over the past week.