

Burning Ban still in effect

Written by

Wednesday, 12 September 2007 19:00

According to Watauga County Forest Ranger Rudy Johnson, the statewide burning ban is causing some confusion among residents. Despite rumors to the contrary, he says, the statewide burning ban is still in effect in all 100 counties of North Carolina due to drought conditions. Just a reminder- this includes all campfires.