

17-game streak ends

Written by

Saturday, 22 September 2007 17:54

Appalachian State University's 17-game winning streak ended in Spartanburg, SC today.

The Wofford Terriers defeated ASU 42-31. ASU had some bad luck: quarterback Armanti Edwards had to move to the sidelines due to a shoulder injury. The loss puts ASU at the bottom of the Southern Conference standings with a 0-1 record. The Mountaineers will spend this week prepping for next Saturday's match against Elon.