

Chamber appreciates ASU

Written by
Monday, 24 September 2007 21:02

---

It's day two of Boone Area Chamber of Commerce's Appalachian State University Appreciation Week, and students give the High Country a lot to appreciate, the Chamber's Dick Hearn says.

Students spend money at area businesses, as well as provide a job pool for hotels and restaurants.

You don't have to be in the chamber to give back. Joan Hearn says there are plenty of ways to show appreciation- and have fun in the process.

There's always something to do on campus. Hearn recommends music and theatre events.

The week ends Friday with the 8 a.m. Wake Up Watauga Breakfast at Dan'l Boone Inn.