

Dancing for charities

Written by

Tuesday, 02 October 2007 19:00

Need some yard work done? Western Youth Network director Jennifer Grubb has some ideas of how you can get it done cheaply- and help a good cause.

Dancers are prepping for ASU's 2007 24-hour Dance Marathon. Each dancer must raise $10 per hour of dancing- and the money goes to Western Youth Network and Parent to Parent.

It's hard work, dancing for 24 hours- but it's a lot of fun, Grubb says.

It's an event Grubb's organization has begun to count on financially each year.

The Marathon is in its fifth year and takes place November 17-18 from 9 a.m. to 9 a.m.

To donate to the cause in exchange for yard work, contact Allie Davis at the ASU ACT office at 828-262-2193.