

Alumni to come from all over

Written by

Wednesday, 03 October 2007 22:42

The Alumni Association's Amanda Griggs expects a crowd in Boone for Appalachian State University's Homecoming this weekend.

They're coming from all over, she says.

In fact, the hotels are booked. Homecoming is going to be bigger than ever.

With the 34-32 win over Michigan, Appalachian State University is attracting a lot of attention. Coupled with the two national championships, there's a lot to be proud of.

For more information on Homecoming festivities, visit www.appstate.edu .