

Water use decreased by 30 percent

Written by

Thursday, 08 November 2007 20:41

As we reported yesterday, Governor Mike Easley's challenge to North Carolinians was heard.

While Easley asked residents to reduce their water consumption by 50 percent, a 30 percent decrease was shown. Easley encouraged residents to continue their water conservation efforts, saying "it must become habit since it is unlikely the drought will lift anytime soon."