Originally, University of North Carolina system President Tom Ross wanted three names from the Chancellor Search Committee, seeking to find a replacement for Chancellor Ken Peacock. Appalachian State University Board of Trustees Chairman Mike Steinback said yesterday that the trustees voted unanimously January 31st to forward three candidates to Ross for his consideration, then found out their third candidate accepted another position. Now the committee waits to see if Ross needs further from them, but otherwise, they, like the rest of us, will await the choice.
