

Blowing Rock Water Out Tonight

Written by Steve Frank
Tuesday, 15 April 2014 05:44

A reminder to Blowing Rock water customers—that water to be cut off from 10:00pm tonight until 6:00am Wednesday, April 16 as part of utility work connected with the US 321 widening project. Plans are for the work to take no more than 8 hours to complete, so service is expected to be restored by 6:00 a.m., in time for your shower and other necessities. The town release says that immediately following completion of the work, lines in the area will be flushed by staff to help reduce sediment that may have been dislodged as a result of the maintenance. With that, it is highly recommended that all customers run their cold water for a few minutes to help clear the lines once the water service has been restored.