Theatre lovers are in for a treat on Sunday. Natasha William's production of "Power Plays," directed by Ed Desiato comes to the River House.

Last week, they met rave reviews in Lexington, Kentucky. The plays include two one-act productions, according to Sherman Lyle. While there are female parts in one of the one-acts, all parts will be played by males. It should make for an interesting evening. The plays were written by Elaine May and Alan Arkin.

The show is Sunday, June 10th. The bar opens at 4 p.m. with complimentary hors d'oeuvres. Supper will be served at 5 p.m., and dessert comes during intermission. For reservations, call 336-982-2109.
