The Hungry Howie's Pizza & Subs restaurant on Blowing Rock Road in Boone is now under new ownership.

Brian Fairbanks, who helped run a Hungry Howie's franchise in Charlotte for three years, is the new owner of Boone's Hungry Howie's location.

Fairbanks said he closed on the purchase in late April and the restaurant has just finished remodeling. The new owner explained the menu has also been revamped.

Fairbanks said he is originally from Ohio, but worked with his brother in Charlotte for several years before deciding to purchase his own franchise here in the High Country.

The owner said he really likes the location and noted that he is happy not to have to deal with the crime that comes along with running a business in Charlotte.
