Brooke Rhodes and Hannah Margolis of the Watauga High women's basketball team were named to the Northwestern 3A/4A All-Conference team.

Rhodes and Margolis, only sophomores, and their teammates backboned WHS to its first winning season since 2001, and they also led the Pioneers to seven conference victories and a third-place finish. The seven wins in league play were the most by WHS since 1997. The Pioneers also reached the NW3A/4A Conference tournament championship game for the first time in school history.

The Pioneers were bested by Hickory in the finals. Jada Payne of Hickory was the Player of the Year; Jeff Parham of South Caldwell was named the Coach of the Year.
