Oily Smoke Damages Blowing Rock Home

Written by Jim Landis, Blowing Rock Fire & Rescue Saturday, 26 March 2011 08:57

The Blowing Rock Fire & Rescue responded to this house on Vail Drive at the top of Appalachian Ski Mountain Friday morning to find the house filled with oil-laden smoke. (photos courtesy Blowing Rock Fire/Rescue)

The caretaker of the residence was making his morning check of the house, discovered the smoke and called for emergency personnel. Blowing Rock Fire & rescue personnel arrived in minutes and shut off the malfunctioning oil furnace and ventilated the house.

There was an estimated $30,000 worth of smoke damage to the house and contents.

