Despite a lopsided loss on Saturday at Virginia Tech, the Appalachian State University football team maintained its top five ranking in The Sports Network Top 25 Poll.

And the Mountaineers (0-1), who take on North Carolina A&T in their home opener Saturday at Kidd Brewer Stadium, dropped to third in the rankings, but they also received two first-place votes. Defending national champion Eastern Washington, which suffered a 30-27 decision at Washington on Saturday, remained No.1. The Eagles also received 111 first-place votes.

Georgia Southern, which won its season and SoCon opener at Samford Saturday night, is ranked second in the poll, and the Eagles received 29 first-place votes.

Northern Iowa and William & Mary round out the top five. Montana State, Wofford, Delaware, Richmond and Jacksonville State round out the top ten. ASU is ranked second in the FCS Coaches Poll; the Apps also received one first place vote. Georgia Southern is ranked third, but the Eagles received three first-place votes. Wofford is eighth; Chattanooga is 23rd. Eastern Washington is No.1. The Eagles also received 23 first-place votes.
