Sarah Porter of Zap Fitness in Blowing Rock, running in only her second professional race, finished 22nd on Sunday at the New York City Marathon. Porter, a native of Bellingham, WA., was the NCAA Division II national champion in track and cross country last season. She finished Sunday's race in 2-hours, 44-minutes, 25 seconds. Firehiwot Dado of Ethiopia won the NYC Marathon in 2:23:15.

Porter, who graduated from Western Washington University, turned in a fifth-place finish at the U.S. Road Runner Championships in Minneapolis, MN., on October 15 in her first professional race³. She completed that race in 55:01.
