Well, Mark LeGree has landed with another National Football team. This time, he's made the move from the west coast to the city that never sleeps.

The New York Jets signed the three-time All-America from Appalachian State University to their practice squad on December 13. And LeGree joins former Mountaineer Dexter Jackson, who was signed to the Jets practice squad in November.

The Jets are LeGree's fourth team this season. He was originally a fifth-round pick of the Seattle Seahawks in the NFL Draft last April. But he was released at the end of training camp. He was signed by the Arizona Cardinals in mid-September, but was released October 5; and the San Francisco 49ers signed him to their practice squad before they cut him loose.

Fernandez Commits To ASU

Senior offensive lineman Tyson Fernandez has made a verbal commitment to attend Appalachian State University to play football for the Mountaineers next fall.

Fernandez, a 6-foot-2, 315 pound right guard, plays at Fuquay Varina High School in Fuquay-Varina, NC. National signing day for college football will be February 1, 2012.
