

Quick To Bears?

Written by Mike Kelly
Thursday, 19 April 2012 12:57

Well, if Mel Kiper Jr., of ESPN has his way, wide receiver Brian Quick will end up with the Chicago Bears on draft day next weekend. Kiper predicts that Quick would go to the Bears with the 50th pick in the second-round of the National Football League Draft. He came to this conclusion through a three-round mock draft he conducted on Wednesday. The NFL Draft will be held in New York City April 26-28. "Quick is a 6-foot-3 receiver who ran a 4.55 at the scouting combine but, like veteran Brandon Marshall, would offer a different skill set than what the Bears have been using in recent years," Kiper said.

The first round of the NFL Draft takes place Thursday, April 26, followed by the second and third rounds on Friday, April 27. Rounds 4-7 will be held Saturday, April 28.

WalterFootball.com has Quick going to the San Francisco 49ers with the 61st pick in the second round; CBSsports.com is predicting that Quick will go to the Pittsburgh Steelers with the 56th selection in the second round; DraftAce predicts Quick will go to Jacksonville Jaguars with the 38th pick in the second round.

Quick, who raised his stock with a strong performance in the Senior Bowl back in January and at the NFL Combine in late February, is ASU's all-time leading receiver in receptions (202), touchdown receptions (31) and receiving yardage (3,418).

Photo Courtesy: Brian Quick, ASU Athletics