

ACC Tournament Announces Expansion

Written by Staff Reports
Thursday, 17 May 2012 13:10

The Atlantic Coast Conference has announced it will allow all of its 14 members to play in the ACC Tournament, which will be held in Amelia Island, Fla., in 2014. The ACC has also announced the tournament will expand to five-day format, Wednesday-Sunday.

The ACC will expand to 14 teams when Syracuse and Pittsburgh leave the Big East Conference to join the ACC. There will be two play-in games on Wednesday. The league will leave its division alignments in place for football. Syracuse will join the Atlantic Division and Pittsburgh will join the Coastal. The two will serve as cross-division partners for scheduling purposes, meaning they'll play every year.