Ryan Arrowood hasn't missed a beat since joining the professional baseball ranks. Selected by the Colorado Rockies in the 28th round, Arrowood has been a huge pick up for the Rockies. In 14 appearances with the Tri-Cities

Dust Devils of the Short Season Class A Northwest League, Arrowood is 3-0 with a 1.14 earned-run-average; and he's won his last two appearances. Arrowood has given up a run on one hit with a walk and 12 strikeouts in his left seven innings.....And Jeremy Dowdy, who signed a free-agent rookie deal with the Chicago White Sox, is hitting .282, splitting time between Bristol (Va.) in the Rooker Class A Appalachian League and the Winston-Salem Dash of the Advanced Class A Carolina League.
