

Quick Has Strong Showing For Rams

Written by Staff Reports
Friday, 17 August 2012 08:31

Brian Quick is getting more reps with the first team this week and he's now put together perhaps his two best practices of his young career. He skied for a ball from Kellen Clemens in 7 on 7s and brought it down in the end zone; then proceeded to catch everything thrown his way during the Thursday's workout. The outing also impressed coach Jeff Fisher.

"Quick looked like he did at his now famous workout at Appalachian State," Fisher said. "Maybe Quick just likes the indoors. That could bode well since we play indoors."

"Wow, it looked like the lightbulb came on today for him," said Rams quarterback Sam Bradford. "He had a great practice, made a lot of tough catches in practice."

Quick made one catch for nine yards in his NFL debut last Sunday in a 38-3 loss against the Indianapolis Colts. The Rams (0-1) play the Kansas City Chiefs Saturday at the Edwards D. Jones Dome.

NOTES: Former Appalachian State running back Cedric Baker-Boney has a tryout with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.