Clouds, thunder, and an occasional dampening from the skies could not dampen the spirits or keep 1500 beer fans from BeerFest Saturday afternoon at the Broyhill Center on the ASU campus. The 5th annual event was, for the third year, a sellout, days before the gates opened for the event on the grounds. The line wrapped around the building as ticket holders were checked in to the event, then the music cranked up, the seminars started, and the beer was poured from brewers across the region and across the country.
