

ASU Men's Golf Finishes Fourth at Mission Inn

Written by Megan Samassa
Monday, 22 October 2012 08:35

Appalachian State University men's golf finished fourth overall at the Mission Inn Intercollegiate. Josh Nichols led the way for the Mountaineers finishing tied for fifth overall after leading after day two. Nichols carded a 73-73-76=222 (+6), while Casey Komline finished second for App State and tied for 17 overall shooting a 77-75-76=228 (+12).

Drew Harris and Jay Brown tied for 25th overall with Harris shooting a 78-83-70=231 (+15) and Brown carding a 76-79-76=231 (+15) through three rounds. Daniel Walsh rounded out the scoring for the Apps as he finished one stroke behind Harris and Brown with a 79-77-76=232 (+16), finishing tied for 30th overall.

Appalachian held on to its fourth place finish as they carded a 304-304-298=906 (+42) and Johnson & Wales (Fla.) took home the first place finish shooting a 299-299-286=884 (+20). Bethune-Cookman College finished second with a 301-304-294=899 (+35) and St. John's finished third five strokes behind Bethune-Cookman.

Appalachian State will be back in action on Saturday, Nov. 3 when they travel to Cashiers, N.C. for the Hummingbird Intercollegiate at Country Club of Sapphire. The tournament will be a two day event.

Photo Courtesy: Josh Nichols, ASU Athletics