The University of Tennessee has scheduled a press conference for 2:30 p.m. to introduce Butch Jones as its new football coach. Jones replaces Derek Dooley, who was fired after three years with the Volunteers. Jones has led Cincinnati to a 23-14 record over his tenure, and a 19-6 record over the past two seasons. In 2011 and 2012, he led the Bearcats to a tie for first in the Big East. Cincinnati won the Liberty Bowl last season, and is scheduled to face Duke in the Belk Bowl on December 27. Prior to Cincinnati, Jones coached at Central Michigan.
