Appalachian State women's tennis finished the afternoon with a disappointing 6-1 final against East Tennessee State University at Yonahlossee Racquet Club on Saturday. Despite a tough effort, the Mountaineers (6-2) were unable to overcome the Buccaneers (3-0), and recorded only their second loss of the season.

ETSU swept through doubles competition to earn the first point and an early 1-0 lead against the Mountaineers. Ellie Linsell and Mackenie LaSure fell to Lyn Yee Choo and Anna Gerbasi in No. 1 singles (8-6), along with Jennifer Ansari and Clare Cox, who were defeated at No. 2 flight by Buccaneer pair Antonia Kolovou and Larn McShane (8-6). ETSU rounded out doubles competition when Sofia Espana and Salma Dahbi defeated Gabriela Celi and Brianna Armellino in the No. 3 position (8-4).

The Mountaineers opened singles play on a positive note with Linsell's defeat of Giulia Andreazza (6-4, 6-4) in No. 1 flight to knot the match at 1-1, but ETSU quickly regained the lead with Kolovou's victory against Cox in No. 2 singles (6-2, 6-3) and moved from there. Ansari fell to Gerbasi (6-4, 6-2) at the No. 3 spot, while Armellino dropped her match to Choo in No. 4 flight (7-3, 6-3). Jessica Thaggard fell to ETSU's Salma Dahbi (6-3, 6-5) in the No. 5 position, while Gabriela Celi's loss to Sofia Espana in No. 6 singles (6-3, 6-3) would finalize the Buccaneer's 6-1 victory.

Looking ahead, the Mountaineers will travel to Clinton, South Carolina on Feb. 24, where they will face Presbyterian College. Appalachian will return home to host Chattanooga on March 1 at 2 p.m.
