Chattanooga's Ashlen Dewart has been named the Southern Conference Women's Basketball Player of the Week for games through February 25, the league office announced today, her second honor of the season. Dewart led the Lady

Mocs to the Southern Conference regular season crown with back-to-back home court wins. She averaged 18 points per game including 24 against Davidson for the outright title, and had nine rebounds in each game. Against Western Carolina, Dewart played just 19 minutes in the 81-39 victory. She went 6-of-9 (.667) from the field and five of her nine rebounds were on the offensive end. Against Davidson, Dewart was 11-of-13 (.846) and added nine rebounds, two assists and four steals through 32 minutes of play. She is third in the league in scoring with 15.9 points per game, ninth in rebounding (6.9) leads the SoCon with a .534 field goal percentage and averages 2.8 offensive boards. On the year she has tallied 444 points and nearly 200 rebounds. She has 10 games with at least 20 points this season and has recorded six double-doubles. Other top performers last week included Appalachian State's Anna Freeman, College of Charleston's Afreyea Tolbert, Davidson's Barbara Sitton, Elon's Kelsey Evans, Furman's Brittany Hodges, Georgia Southern's Meredyth Frye, and Samford's Hannah Dawson.
