Appalachian State men's tennis opened its SoCon slate with a 5-2 victory over The Citadel on Friday afternoon at Earle Tennis Center in Charleston, South Carolina. With the win, the Mountaineers (3-7, 1-0 SoCon) improve to 2-1 in March play, while the Bulldogs (5-6, 0-3 SoCon) are 0-4 on the month, with three conference losses including today's loss to Appalachian.

The Citadel started off strong with doubles competition. While Appalachian's No. 1 duo Zach Bost/Sebastien King defeated Oliver Dedding/David Orces in the first match of the day, the Bulldogs took the doubles decision with 8-5 and 8-6 victories at No's. 2 and 3, respectively. David Orces carried the momentum for the Citadel as he overcame Sebastien King in No. 1 flight (6-2, 6-3) to give the Bulldogs an early two point advantage. The Mountaineers responded, however, picking up wins in the remaining matches. Steve Karendal defeated Dillon Berkabile at No. 2 (6-1, 7-5), while Bost posted a 6-1, 6-1 win versus Peter Bleach in No. 3. Rounding out Appalachian's two-set victories were Andrew McKinnon, who bested James Atkinson (6-4, 7-5) in No. 4 flight, and Zeke Sansing, who defeated Jackson Pride (6-3, 6-4) in the sixth position. Matt Saltsgaver found success at No. 5, where he defeated Elliott Sperr in three sets (3-6, 6-4, 6-4).

Up next, the Mountaineers remain in Charleston, South Carolina as they continue conference play with a match against College of Charleston on Sat., March 16 at 11 a.m.

ASU Women's Tennis Takes Down Campbell, 5-2

Appalachian State women's tennis closed out their four-match road series with a 5-2 victory at Campbell University on Friday afternoon at Nisbet Tennis Center. The Mountaineers (10-4, 2-0 SoCon) posted a pair of disappointing losses to Gardner-Webb and UNCW earlier in the week, but bounced right back when they took down the Fighting Camels (4-9) to notch another win in their impressive start to the season. Appalachian's top tandem of Ellie Linsell and Mackenzie LaSure lead the Mountaineers in doubles action with an 8-5 win over Tamara Stanic and Karolina Chernaya at No. 1. The Fighting Camels lived up to their name, however, and redeemed in doubles competition with victories at No's. 2 and 3 to grab the first point and the early 1-0 lead.

The Mountaineers were ready to respond as senior leader Ellie Linsell defeated Campbell's Stanic a second time on the afternoon with a 6-2, 6-3 victory in No. 1 flight. Clare Cox joined with a win of her own at No. 2, where she pulled past Ana Maria Ortiz in three-sets (4-6, 6-4, 6-3) to edge the Mountaineers ahead of Campbell, 2-1.

The Camels came to life briefly when Chernaya outlasted Brianna Armellino in a three-set tiebreak at No. 3 (6-7 (4-7), 6-1, 6-4) to knot the score at two. The Black & Gold responded, securing Appalachian's win with victories at No's. 4, 5, and 6. Jennifer Ansari defeated Natasha Afridi, 7-5, 6-4, while Jessica Thaggard (6-2, 6-1) and Gabriella Celi (6-1, 6-2) rounded out the
