Appalachian State Field Hockey was defeated by Ball State on Monday 2-0 in a neutral site match located in Harrisonburg, Va. The Cardinals (1-1) scored early on in the ninth minute of the game when Tori Widrick took the dribble in to the right side of the goal, making the score 1-0. The Mountaineers (0-2) could not catch up as they dropped behind 2-0 at the 58:41 minute mark. Lexi Kavanaugh scored on the right side of the goal off of a pass from Bethany Han. Sophomore Caroline Phillips (Delmar, Del./Delmar) led the team in shots with eight, followed by sophomore Lindsay Amador (McLean, Va./Langley) with five. Senior Sarah Anderson (Louisville, Ky./Kentucky Country Day) played in goal all 70 minutes and recorded seven saves. Appalachian outshot Ball State 21-17 and earned 10 penalty corners to the Cardinals' five. With the loss, Appalachian drops to 0-2 on the 2013 season. The Mountaineers will hit the road on Sept. 8 to play Vermont in Davidson, N.C. at 11:30 a.m.
