The Appalachian State University and head coach Scott Satterfield, who begins his second season at the helm this fall, concluded National Signing Day on Wednesday by signing 22 player (27 in all, but five were all ready enrolled in school during the spring semester) to its first FBS class in school history.

The University of Alabama had the No.1 recruiting class in the nation followed by LSU. Florida State was fourth on the list and Tennessee was seventh.

Georgia was ninth on that national list, Clemson was 17th, South Carolina was 21st, Virginia Tech was 27th, North Carolina was 29th, North Carolina State was 34th, Duke was 59th, Wake Forest was 63rd, East Carolina was 75th and App State was 92nd.

App State's inaugural FBS class includes six wide receivers, four linebackers, four offensive linemen, a tight end, one athlete, a quarterback, two running backs, three defensive linemen and five defensive backs.
