Appalachian State University athletics announced on Thursday that a flex package has been added to the list of options for fans wishing to purchase football tickets for the Mountaineers' inaugural season in the Sun Belt Conference and NCAA Division I FBS in 2014.

Flex packages allow fans to purchase tickets for two or more home games of their choice. It is the perfect solution for Appalachian State faithful that aren't able to commit to a full-season or fixed-date half-season ticket package but still want to secure their seats at The Rock before single-game tickets go on sale on Aug. 5.

Prices range from $27-42 per seat, per game, based on the games and section of the stadium chosen.

All 2014 season-ticket packages (full, half and flex) are on sale now and can be purchased online at appstatesports.com/tickets or by phone at (828) 262-2079.
